

GIVE THE DEVIL HIS DUE

Then cut him off without a cent!

20 Nov 10

The question is not whether we need the Services that Government currently provides; it is whether in this day and age, with the Technology of the Internet: Is Government an optimum means to provide those services?

As I have earlier argued, Government is a sanctuary for criminals. There is no logical reason to continue to provide the mechanism for wholesale Corruption that is Government. Perhaps you are in a small town where everybody knows everybody – the likelihood of Corruption is still high, but because it is more visible, it probably won't be so damaging. But as soon as you start sending your money to Jurisdictions too big for you or your neighbors to keep tabs on it, you have to figure a good 30% of your money – at least! – will slide down the rat hole of Corruption.

Better the Devil you know than an unknown Angel... So, the thing to do is to move away from the Devil slowly. Revolutions are generally messy, and not really fun. But evolving into a Society which can organize itself without enshrining Corruption might be a good thing.